INCIDENT / ACCIDENT INVESTIGATION FOR EMERGENCY SERVICES – STUDENT LEVEL Justin M. Eberly, VFIS Education & Training Specialist

Each year untoward events occur that impact emergency service organizations and the general public. VFIS believes that many of these incidents can be reduced. One of the best tools that enable us to reduce these incidents is the investigation of all incidents that occur, regardless of whether a death, injury or serious property damage was the result. It is in the investigation, and specifically in the information gathered during incident investigations, that we may find the solutions to many of the problems that cause a loss.

This course has been developed by members of the emergency services to be presented to emergency service organizations as a training aid and to provide an information source regarding the investigation of incidents.

After attending this session, the participant should be able to:

- Understand the concepts related to risk control
- Identify what incidents should be investigated
- Describe the various phases of an incident investigation
- Describe incident reporting procedures
- Understand the process for completion of an incident investigation form
- Conduct a preliminary incident investigation
