Hypertension in Pregnancy

Julie Gelman, MD
OB/GYN - Obstetrix

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, the learner will be able to:

- Identify the different types of hypertension in pregnancy;
- Recognize treatment and management options for severe hypertension, eclampsia and HELLP syndrome;
- Discuss fetal surveillance in patients with hypertension in pregnancy;

Activity Description: This is a virtual CME-certified educational intervention designed to address the identified gaps in the care of patients with hypertension in pregnancy. Prompt identification and treatment of hypertension in pregnancy is vital for the well being of mom and baby. Educational updates on this topic will ensure that providers in rural and small communities with limited access to advanced care will have the knowledge needed to identify and treat hypertension in pregnancy.

DISCLOSURE:

The HCA Healthcare Continental Division is committed to providing CME that is balanced, objective, and evidenced-based. In accordance with the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education Standards for Integrity and Independence, all parties involved in content development are required to disclose any relevant conflicts of interest with ACCME defined ineligible companies. The ACCME defines ineligible companies as those whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. Note: The ACCME does not consider providers of clinical service directly to patients to be commercial interests – unless the provider of clinical services is owned, or controlled by, an ACCME defined ineligible company. The HCA-HealthONE Denver Hospital System has identified, reviewed, and mitigated all conflicts of interest that speakers, authors, course directors, planners, peer reviewers, or relevant staff disclose prior to the delivery of all accredited educational content.

ACCREDITATION:

The HCA Healthcare Continental Division is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.
